Helpful Hints to Hiring Your Wedding Videographer

-  Choose a videographer with a reputable standing, who has experience in live event videography in general, and wedding videography in specific.
-  Talk to your videographer in advance (in person if possible) and make sure that you feel comfortable working with them. It's important that you like them and would feel comfortable having them around during your special day, as they'll be as much a part of your ceremony as your photographer, officiant, and so on.
-  Listen to their sales pitch carefully. Do they use back up equipment? What is their policy in the event of an emergency? Have they ever had to cancel a client's contract based on a last minute circumstance?
-  Ask them, how soon after the wedding is shot can you expect to receive your edited video? If the turnaround time seems unreasonable, you may want to forego price in favor of reliability and timeliness.
-  Does your potential videographer provide a contract clearly stating price, deposit amounts, cancellation policy and any other binding factors? A reputable videographer will put all of these specifics in writing to protect both parties.
-  Do you have special concerns? Discuss these with your potential video personnel and judge their reactions.
-  Consider your budget and payment options. Does your videographer accept credit cards or personal checks? Beware of anyone who demands that you pay in cash.
-  If you feel uncomfortable with any of the information you gather during the interviewing process, rely on your instincts. Your special day is too important!

Wedding Service Guide

To schedule Great Lakes Video Services as your wedding video provider, follow these helpful step-by-step instructions.

2-4 Months Before the Wedding

- Choose the package that works best for your needs.
- Call to book date/time (2-4 months in advance if possible.)
- At the time of confirmation, a contract will be issued in the mail which details your package, the amounts due, and special instructions. Fill out the contract as completely as possible. Then sign where indicated and mail it, along with your 30% deposit, to us at 1320 Front NW.

Note: Until your deposit is received, the date is not confirmed. (We will, however, hold a date for a client for a week or two while they choose a package.)

1 Month Before the Wedding

- If you are having a photo montage made, start gathering your photos, songs and title information. Call us if you have any questions while assembling your montage, we're happy to assist you!

2 Weeks Before the Wedding

- Drop off your montage materials to our studio.
- Give us a call to discuss any special instructions or concerns. We'll go over any last minute details at that time.

1-3 Weeks After the Wedding

- When your video is edited and copies have been made, we'll call to let you know it is ready for pickup. At this time, all contract balances are due. When you pick up your completed videos, plan on a few extra minutes to choose your custom wedding cases.

Congratulations on your special day, and thank you for considering Great Lakes Video Services!
